BCE signs deal on two Nevada projects with Eldorado Gold

TUCSON, ARIZONA — Bronco Creek Exploration Inc. ("BCE" or the "Company") is pleased to announce that on Dec. 16, 2008, the Company executed an option and joint venture agreement with a subsidiary of Eldorado Gold Corporation (TSX: "ELD," AMEX: "EGO"; "Eldorado Gold") covering two BCE gold exploration projects located in Nevada, USA.

The two BCE properties included in the Eldorado Gold agreement are: 1) Cathedral Well, a Carlin-style gold target located in the White Pine Range of southwestern White Pine County, and 2) Richmond Mountain, a mixed Carlin-type gold and polymetallic skarn target between the Fish Creek Range and the Diamond Mountains in Eureka County. BCE and Eldorado Gold technical teams will jointly develop exploration programs for the projects and BCE will initially serve as the operator of the exploration programs. Commencement of field activities is slated for Spring 2009.

BCE is a scientifically innovative base and precious metals exploration company that has a current portfolio of 10 exploration projects in Arizona, three projects in Nevada, and one project in Wyoming. The Company is privately held and controls more than 60,000 acres of state and federal mineral rights in the southwest United States. Twelve of the projects are currently in partnership with six companies who provide exploration funding. The Company applies the extensive experience of its geological team in ore-deposits research and exploration to capitalizing on opportunities in classic mineral districts and under-explored terrains through project concept generation, property acquisition, and the establishment of strategic exploration alliances and other partnerships.
